

State Income Or Sales Tax Inevitable, Experts Contend

Economists Base Forecast On Discussion

HARRISBURG, April 6 (AP)—A forum on Pennsylvania's tax ills ended today with two speakers calling a sales tax or personal income tax inevitable before the end of the year.

"Mr. (James J.) Mahon predicted a sales tax before the end of the year," said Leonard K. Drake, economist for the Greater Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce.

"I predict a sales tax with few exemptions or a personal income tax or both before the end of the year. There is no way of getting away from it. That fact has become clear in these two days of discussions," he said.

Drake was the final speaker at a two-day educational forum on Pennsylvania taxation, conducted by the Tax Institute Inc., of Princeton, N. J.

If Gov. (George M.) Leader does finally come up with an income tax he is going against the national trend which is toward sales taxes," Drake pointed out.

"In about one-half of the states the top producing tax is a sales levy. In one-third more it is a motor fuel tax. In only five or six it is a personal income tax. And in one state the top producing taxes are on corporations—that's Pennsylvania."

Mahon, Philadelphia accountant, made his prediction in a discussion session.

After the session, Clarence L. Turner of Philadelphia, the chairman, said he too believes Pennsylvania will have a sales tax. "We can't do anything else. An income tax would have to have exemptions to make it work right and we can't have that under the Constitution."

Pennsylvania's present one per cent retail sales tax will expire Aug. 31 and Gov. Leader is pledged against reenacting it. He also has declared himself against a "wage tax" but declines to comment on variation of an income tax. Some form of such a levy is believed to be the mainstay of the tax project.

Carney's Denial Disputed

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—The dispute rolled on today whether Adm. Robert B. Carney did, or did not, tell a group of correspondents the Chinese Reds might launch a war assault by mid-April.

Robert L. Riggs, Washington correspondent for the Louisville Courier-Journal, said his extensive shorthand and longhand notes show Carney made the statement at a now-famous background dinner for reporters March 24.

Riggs wrote that Carney said at least four times he expected an attack by April 15, saying among other things that the Chinese Reds "probably will initiate an attack on Matsui in mid-April."

Carney, chief of naval operations, told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee yesterday that "I never made such a statement." He declined all comment today.

Paul R. Leach, head of the Washington Bureau of the Chicago Daily News who was also at the dinner, said Carney was "intentionally correct" in saying he did not predict an attack on Matsui April 15.

"My notes do not have Carney saying the Reds would make the attack on the Matsui by mid-April," Leach wrote, "but that they could be 'able' to initiate an attack, perhaps that early."

Kerr Asks Ban On Atom Weapons

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—Sen. Kerr (D-Ore.) appeared publicly to President Eisenhower today to ban the use of atomic weapons in any defense of Quemoy and Matsui.

Kerr said in a statement that the employment of other than conventional weapons in fending off any Red Chinese attack against the islands "could provoke massive retaliation against American families and American homes."

Eisenhower has said that precision atomic weapons may be used on military targets in any hostilities larger than a mere police action. This has been accepted generally in Congress as indicating such weapons would be employed if a major engagement develops in the Formosa area.

Judge Upholds Tongay Verdict

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 6 (AP)—The Florida Supreme Court held today that Russell G. Tongay showed a "reckless disregard" for the safety of his 5-year-old aquatut daughter, Kathy, and upheld his manslaughter conviction in her death.

Tongay was sentenced to 10 years at hard labor after Kathy died in May, 1953, following a dive from a 33-foot board at a Miami Beach swimming pool.

He had worked with Kathy and her 9-year-old brother, Bubba, almost from their infancy in an attempt to make swimming prodigies of them.

Leader Expects Decision On Tax Program By Time Assembly Returns April 18

HARRISBURG, April 6 (AP)—Gov. George M. Leader ended two busy days of tax discussions today with a declaration that his program should be settled when the General Assembly reconvenes April 18.

"It is not likely that the many tax proposals under discussion will be resolved in the next few days," Leader said in a statement, but added:

"It is my opinion that by the time the Legislature reconvenes we shall have the budget and tax program pretty much in mind."

The chief executive's statement was issued at the close of a four-hour discussion at the governor's mansion today with Democratic legislative leaders and other top party advisers.

Purpose of the parley, which included a midnight session last night, is to hammer out a tax program to meet the estimated 400 to 500 million dollars in additional revenue needed for the next two years.

Leader said he believes "satisfactory progress" was made at the meeting but that some of his advisers asked for additional time to study some of the ideas projected at the two-day session.

"I would rather move slowly and be right than act hastily and make mistakes," the governor added.

"This is a serious problem. It is a Pennsylvania problem. As such it deserves all of the time and thought we can concentrate on it to protect the interests of the state."

Stassen Refuses To Submit Documents To Investigators Until He Can Review Them

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen declined today to hand over 10 documents to the Senate Investigations subcommittee until he has a chance to review them. He said they were confidential exchanges within the government's executive branch.

Stassen, head of the Foreign Operations Administration, thus tangled again with senators who say they are determined to get all the facts on an FOA project to build some grain elevators in Pakistan.

"You understand," Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) told him, "that in event of your refusal this committee would have no remedy but to subpoena the documents. Would you resist a subpoena?"

Stassen declined to say. "The premise of the whole matter is an 'if' situation," he told McClellan. "I would prefer to see whether the 'if' situation ever arises."

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), an old Stassen antagonist, at one point accused the foreign aid chief of lying under oath and demanded he be called before a grand jury.

McClellan said he wouldn't interrupt the hearing at this time for a side issue. He said McCarthy could make the request later if he wanted to.

What aroused McCarthy was Stassen's testimony that when McCarthy ran the subcommittee, its investigators would not let FOA witnesses see the transcripts of their testimony and the witnesses were cross-examined on the basis of "doctored" transcripts.

"Mr. Stassen has perjured himself," McCarthy said. "He is not telling the truth. He knows that and we know that."

McClellan challenged Stassen to identify a single transcript that was doctored. Stassen was unable to do so. He said, however, the whole record of the McCarthy-Army hearings last year would show what he was talking about.

In all, McClellan asked Stassen for 21 documents. The witness agreed to produce 11 of them but said he would have to review the other 10 because they were in the nature of confidential exchanges within his agency.

Stassen said it was bad practice for congressional investigators to ask executive agency employees why they make certain recommendations. He said the head of the agency is the one to hold responsible.

Ridgway Still Opposes Army Manpower Cuts

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—Army Chief of Staff Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, testified today he bowed to the decision to cut Army manpower but the reasoning on which he originally opposed it "has not altered."

Ridgway told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee the reduction was not recommended or concurred in by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The Army had about 1,300,000 men at the start of this year, is down to around 1,270,000 now, and is scheduled to drop to 1,027,000 by the middle of 1956.

Under questioning, Ridgway said he had recommended that the Army be held at 1,300,000.

"My recommendations, while this was in the debate stage," the general said, "were of course made from the military point of view. I recognize fully that the civilian authorities of the government have many factors other than the military to consider. It was their decision that reduced to the figures you have before you."

The subcommittee is considering the 24-billion-dollar defense budget for the 1956 fiscal year beginning July 1. The Army's share of the budget is around seven billions.

The Air Force would get the biggest part—more than 14½ billions. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, said that will be adequate to meet Air Force needs, although Russia has made notable and surprising advances in planes and weapons in the last year that definitely threaten American security.

Twining also said the U. S. Air Force is being built up ahead of schedule and "should stay ahead," —with emphasis on quality, nuclear weapons and guided missiles.

He said Russia is known to be working on an intercontinental guided missile and has developed a new heavy jet bomber "aimed squarely in our direction."

The projected cutbacks in the Army have stirred up more controversy over the defense budget than any other issue.

Acting Secretary of the Army Charles F. McCarroll staunchly upheld them—With Ridgway sitting beside him. Fincum complimented the general as "one of the greatest combat leaders and one of the most competent chiefs of staff of our time."

He went on to say there is a feeling among many people that the reduction should not be applied at this time.

"We emphatically do not hold with this concept," he declared. "The Army, at its present strength has twice as many men in it as it had at the outbreak of the Korean War. The Army today has more material, is better equipped to fight, and has a higher degree of training than ever before in peacetime."

Heavy Pork Supplies

HARRISBURG, April 6 (AP)—The State Agriculture Department reported today that unless the nation's heavy supplies of pork and pork products are moved by the end of April the economic welfare of nearly a million American farmers may be threatened.

$350,000 Bank Robbery Staged By Four Bandits

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—Four cocksure bandits, schooled to fine precision by six months of rehearsal, today pulled the biggest cash bank holdup in the history of the nation—and perhaps the world. They got $350,000, most in small bills.

"Don't do anything foolish," they warned their victims in a job as smooth as clockwork. Not a shot was fired, not an outcry raised.

The robbers were painstaking in their casing of the bank, a Chase Manhattan branch in Queens. They remarked to one employee that they had studied the layout for six months.

They knew the names, duties and arrival times of some 11 employees. They even knew first names of the people under their guns.

The armed men, one with a sub-machine gun, kidnaped a bank teller outside his home. They used him to gain entrance to the locked bank just before it opened for the day.

The neatly packaged more than a third of a million dollars had just been taken from a vault.

The gunmen carried the loot to their waiting car. With a final admonition to the bank employees not to sound an alarm, the quartet roared away. A short distance away they abandoned it, apparently transferring the loot to another car.

In an unrelated holdup in Lower Manhattan, miles away from the bank, three masked men robbed a jewelry firm of $75,000 to $100,000 in uninsured diamonds.

Three masked men, equipped with yards of adhesive tape and wire, bound and gagged three persons in the offices of Louis Verbeek & Son. The holdup men wore white gloves and were masked with handkerchiefs. They also took $2,000 in cash from the firm's safe.

The holdup men helped themselves to bundles of cash resting on a dolly—a small, four-wheeled flatcar. It had been taken from the vault minutes before.

Democrats Lead In Five Races, GOP In Three

DETROIT, April 6 (AP)—Late, sweeping unofficial returns from Monday's Michigan spring election today put Democrats ahead in five races and Republicans in three. Only two of 4,783 precincts were still out.

The GOP was sure of only one victory. Its margins were so thin in two races that Democrats conceded nothing.

Contests were so close that only official canvases or recount figures can name winners.

The margins in some were only 2,000 or even fewer votes in the million votes cast.

Republicans seemed certain only of victory for one Supreme Court seat. They led only slightly for superintendent of public instruction, and for a state Board of Education post.

Big Forest Fire Under Control

SWAN QUARTER, N. C., April 6 (AP)—A giant forest fire was brought under control today after ravaging more than 203,000 acres in North Carolina's coastal area.

Assistant State Forester Paul W. Tillman said the week-long blaze in a thinly populated area was set in an isolated woodlands spot bordering Lake Phelps in Washington County the night of March 30. The spot can be reached only by boat and a short while before the fire was sighted a boat was heard leaving the area, Tillman reported.

The Weather

Partly cloudy, rather windy; turning cooler today with light rain or snow in north portion; highest 43-50. Fair and colder tonight. Friday some cloudiness and a little warmer.

Churchill Bows Out In Tears

By Tom Ochiltree
LONDON, April 6 (AP)—Sir Anthony Eden confidently shouldered complex new burdens today as Britain's 42nd Prime Minister while his time-honored predecessor, Sir Winston Churchill, wept upon leaving No. 10 Downing St.

Cheers echoed for them both, but those for Churchill carried the emotional impact of sentiment and sorrow.

Eden—friend of America and first of totalitarians—devoted his first speech in the House of Commons as Prime Minister to praise of the 80-year-old statesman who guided him to the political heights. He made the speech less than four hours after receiving from Queen Elizabeth II the mandate to form a government in succession to Churchill's.

The new Premier—at 57 the youngest in three decades—reminded the House that Churchill "will still be a dominant figure among us."

Churchill remains a member of the House of Commons, but he did not attend the session today.

Instead he paced slowly through the rooms of No. 10 Downing St., the official home of prime ministers that has been the scene of his triumphs and worries in war and peace, and then made his farewell, his lips quivering and his eyes brimming with tears.

Churchill unquestionably could have a dukedom with a nod of his head. But the old warrior intends to stay on as an elder statesman in the Commons, the center of his life for 55 years.

In a letter to his constituents at Woodford, Essex, he said only old age forced him out of the prime ministry and he will run again for his place in Parliament at the next general election.

That was the brightest note, even for his Laborite opponents, in this somewhat somber day.

Election speculation swept the country as the change in leadership was completed. Talk as to dates ranges all the way from May 26 through this fall. The government must call an election before October, 1956, when its 5-year term ends.

Churchill's own words to his constituents strengthened a belief the voting will come soon.

Eden has the responsibility of organizing his own government. For his post as foreign secretary, Eden is understood to have settled on Defense Minister Harold Macmillan, 60.

Like Churchill and Eden, the elegant Macmillan—wartime associate of President Eisenhower in North Africa—is a staunch friend of the United States.

But if an election is imminent, Eden may continue to serve as foreign secretary as well as Prime Minister and defer any major Cabinet changes until he sees whether the Conservatives are returned to power.

Graham Prays For Churchill

GLASGOW, Scotland, April 6 (AP)—Billy Graham prayed tonight for Sir Winston Churchill and world peace.

The young American evangelist called on the 16,750 worshiping Scotsmen at his Kelvin Hall meeting to bow their heads and pray for the health of the 80-year-old retired prime minister.

He also called for prayers for peace "in this torn chaotic world" for the new prime minister, Sir Anthony Eden, and his associates.

Teen-Agers Believe Adults Can Improve Driving, Too

PITTSBURGH, April 6 (AP)—A group of teen-agers interested in highway safety, came up with some suggestions for improvement today—and they said adults could profit, too.

Although insurance statistics show teen-agers have a higher percentage of auto wrecks than those over 21, the teen-agers were defended as a group by Capt. J. G. McCann, a State Police veteran. The youngsters, said Capt. McCann, show a more honest interest in themselves than do their parents.

After a day-long conference the more than 200 teen-agers attending safety conference came up with some conclusions. Among them:

The girls, not the boys, cause the family car problem. They won't walk.

According to Scripture

PROPHECY: I gave my back to the smiters, and my cheeks to them that plucked off the hair; I hid not my face from shame and spitting.—Isaiah 50: 6.

FULFILLMENT: And they smote Him on the head with a reed, and did spit upon Him, and bowing their knees worshipped Him. And when they had mocked Him, they took off the purple from Him, and put His own clothes on Him, and led Him out to crucify Him.—Mark 15: 19, 20.

MOCKERY OF CHRIST

Common Sense Approach Urged To Detect Cancer

IN ITS year-round program, the education committee of the Monroe County Cancer Society unit, is trying to increase YOUR awareness of cancer.

To do this, the committee must often result to the use of statistics which — on the surface may seem like "scare" figures to you.

They must say, for example, that cancer kills more children between the ages of three and 15 years of age than any other disease.

They must say, too, that one out of every four persons in Monroe County will probably be hit by cancer this year.

But these statistics — bald and horrifying though they may seem — are not designed to scare you into giving more money during the one-month annual Cancer Crusade.

They ARE intended to make you alert to cancer. And — more important — they are designed to make you see your doctor and do something about the possibility of cancer in your own body while there's still time.

The basic approach of the education committee—headed by Ralph Burrows and Alfred Munson—is one of pure, old-fashioned common sense.

This fact can best be illustrated by the program carried out by the Cancer Society in its work with the public schools. In biology classes and health conferences at Monroe County high schools, the known facts about cancer are taught by instructors.

To aid the teacher, the Cancer Society unit in Stroudsburg furnishes illustrated pamphlets, sound motion picture films, informative posters and literature which may be taken home by students.

At State Teachers College in East Stroudsburg both science and health education majors receive special pamphlets and brochures published by national ACS headquarters and distributed by the local unit. The students are also placed on the Stroudsburg office mailing list to receive every new bit of information as it becomes available.

One of the most often-requested informational pieces available from local Cancer Society sources is the series of motion pictures. These films—some cartoons, some employing live action—are made by outstanding documentary and commercial firms.

One of them — "Man Alive" — was filmed for the ACS by Stephen Bosustow, head of the United Productions Associates, the Columbia Pictures' cartoon firm. Bosustow is winner of two Academy Awards.

Inter-American Highway

Long the dream of highway planners, the Inter-American Highway linking the United States with South America through Central America is now receiving more than casual support by top officials of the administration, who realize the essential worth of such a long highway in any hemispheric defense planning.

After his recent return from a Caribbean good-will tour, Vice President Nixon commented that "United States aid to the big road has been 'inadequate, uneconomical, and completely unrealistic.'"

He added that the $2 million cut in the 1955 budget recommendation for this project was far from being an economy move and urged that we step up our aid so that the essential highway might be completed in the next four years rather than in 15 to 25 years presently envisaged.

More than that, Mr. Nixon made the important point that World War II had demonstrated need for means of transportation among the Americas completely independent of sea traffic.

In this he was enthusiastically backed by our Ambassador to El Salvador, who recently made the trip on the Inter-American Highway with his family, and encountered areas where it was impossible to continue by motor vehicle and where rail travel was required.

Fortunately, the gaps remaining in the big road total only 186 miles, and with modern road-making machinery should present no real problem if the proper effort is pursued.

The fact that northern hemispheric eyes have not been taking a good look at the situation there does not preclude proper activity in Washington leading to a swift completion of an obviously most important strategic roadway.

We should see a revival of interest in the national capital and with it, a swift completion of the task.

A Confusing Picture

The Interstate Commerce Commission, a government agency regulating the railroads as well as other common carriers, has ruled against the government in its claim to recover billions of dollars from the railroads for alleged overcharges for carrying freight during the World War.

It was not charged that the rates were excessive in themselves, since they were actually lower than the going rates charged to private shippers at the time.

The government's contention was that the railroads might have lowered their rates still further because of the huge volume they then enjoyed.

For the layman who seldom reads news of this kind far below the headlines, the whole situation is decidedly bewildering.

It is not even clear whether the sum sought by the government was nearer two billion dollars than three billions.

Nor is it clear whether the railroads could have claimed credit for taxes paid on the disputed income had the ruling been adverse.

The taxes are said to have covered about 85 per cent of the disputed sum, but the ability of the roads to obtain credit for the taxes was in doubt because of the statute of limitations on claims.

The whole situation is in the realm of Alice in Wonderland, so far as the public is concerned.

It is to be regretted that the government lacks machinery for evaluating such situations on a common sense basis and stating the facts clearly enough for the public to be able to understand.

A great deal of harm is done to the national morale when false impressions, entailing glib references to billions of dollars, are thus created.

Fill-In On Yalta, China Necessary If History Of Events Are To Be Accurate

I picked out of the "Syracuse Daily Orange" an item concerning a lecturer, Paul Harris, who is reported to have said:

"The Alger Hiss case is not closed. I am 90 per cent certain, now not 100 per cent, but 90 per cent certain that the Hiss case is not closed. I have talked to people close to this and I'm pretty sure that in later years it will come to light that Alger Hiss did what he did... to cover up for someone who was mentally incapable of making decisions."

This curious comment leads nowhere in particular because it does not indicate who was "mentally incapable of making decisions." It might have been a male or a female; a public official or a relative; or it could be no one at all... just a guess. Nor is the comment of the slightest importance because whatever Alger Hiss did, he did by choice, as all humans, not captive, do. And he has been to prison for it and is now free.

What would be of real value would be a complete and truthful memoir by Hiss on his relations to our failure at Yalta and to the direction of our China policy which have brought on such disastrous consequences. Hiss can well afford to be truthful now. He has served such a sentence as a court determined upon and that, under our system, frees him from his past. There can be no double jeopardy.

But what Hiss knows is of historic significance. Too many people want history suppressed because they look so stupid in its pages. Yet the fill-in on Yalta and the China policy is necessary if the history of these events is ever to be written accurately. The prospects for such accuracy are today not too good.

An example of controversy which will puzzle the future historian is the role of General Douglas MacArthur. Since his return to this country after his dismissal by President Truman, General MacArthur in public statement and private conversation has stated that he had favored efforts to bring Russia into the Far Eastern War immediately after Pearl Harbor but had opposed Russia's joining as unnecessary after October, 1944.

Efforts have been made to deny that this had been MacArthur's position. As all the papers in this case are in the possession of both General MacArthur and the Pentagon, surely the difference of opinion can be dissolved by the publication of the documents.

General Charles A. Willoughby says in his book, "MacArthur: 1941-1951":

"... As early as December 13 MacArthur wired Secretary of War Henry Stimson to force the Soviet hand. As MacArthur put it: '... The Russians had turned back the Germans before Moscow. Stalin had his great victories, the Germans had been rolled back 200 to 600 miles. That was the time for the Russians to put pressure on the North and so save the Pacific. But Churchill and the American government were again at it. I was as insistent on the Russians' entrance into the war at that time as I was against it later when we had the victory in our grasp."

General Willoughby was MacArthur's intelligence officer and because of their present personal relations, his book must be regarded as authorized. So we turn to page 285 of the same book and find:

"... Toward the end of 1944, Russian intervention in the Pacific appeared as a factor in secret diplomatic understandings. The General commented on this subject as follows: 'From the viewpoint of my Headquarters, Russian participation was not required. I had urged Russian intervention in 1941 to draw the Japanese from their southward march and keep them pinned down in Siberia. By 1945 such intervention had become superfluous.'"

Frazier Hunt, in his book, "The Untold Story of Douglas MacArthur," which he could not have written without access to documents, speaks of a press conference on the porch of the Japanese Club at Taichan, Leyte, several weeks before the Yalta Agreement. Hunt wrote:

"Communist Russia, he (MacArthur) insisted, would sooner or later try to reverse the results of the Russo-Japanese War of 1904-5. She still dreamed of recovering Port Arthur, thus securing a warm-water port into the Pacific, and as well, regaining her lost toehold in Manchuria."

History is built, like a mosaic, from bits and scraps. To this mosaic, Alger Hiss can add much if he would serve his country.

Stalin, Justice Byrnes proposed a toast to the common man all over the world. Miss Harriman, replying for the ladies present, proposed a toast to everybody who had worked so hard to make things comfortable for all present in the Crimea. "Our heads spun like everything at this point and in trying to hold the paper was listing 45 degrees to starboard, we felt through a picture window, which kept swaying from one side to the other. Everything went black. Next thing we knew we had been signed up for a stay with Alcoholics Anonymous in the wing reserved for readers of Diplomatic Parley Papers. Anybody got a cold today?"

Now we have heard everything! ... A commercial for a commercial even! ... A telecast of the Ringling circus was SPONSORED BY A JELLY COMPANY! ... Never were we so flabbergasted as when a parade of "two hundred tons of ponderous pachyderms" was followed immediately by the eulogy of an apple juice as "sensational"! ... "Winston Churchill for Talks at the Summit"—headline! ... We hope nobody goes just for the climb and mountain air ... It seems to us that two atomic bomb tests in one day hardly jibe with the statement: "We don't want trouble with anybody..."

Harriman by Mr. Vishinsky. Mr. Justice Byrnes got up and proposed that the guests drink to the great armies of the Soviet Union. (By now we were unquestionably groggy and opened a window to let in some cold air.) ... "Mr. Vishinsky then suggested that Messrs. Strang and Winant be toasted. Mr. Stettinius raised his glass to Ambassador Gromyko. Mr. Molotov remarked that diplomats had been toasted enough and raised his glass to Mr. Justice Byrnes. Then Mr. Eden proposed a toast to the men who were fighting the war on all fronts." (Here we felt chilled as an owl declared we could lick any man in the house.) ... (After a toast to the success of the conference, Mr. Molotov was asked for a few remarks.) The Yalta record read: "He raised his glass to the closest unity between the three big powers. Mr. Molotov proposed a toast to the Crimean Conference." ... (We were now too unsteady on our feet to remain upright and slumped to the floor, overturning a couple of lamps. Closing one eye, we got a bead on the official record of a dinner three nights later.) ... "Forty-five toasts were drunk. Marshal Stalin asked for toasts to Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt. Mr. Roosevelt toasted Mr.

Don't Spoil Pleasure Of Blaming Weather On Blasts

No doubt about it, the weather for the last year or so has been more "unusual" than usual.

It isn't that we've been getting weather different from what we've had often enough before. It's just that we've been getting it in the wrong places, at the wrong times.

The preponderance of scientific opinion seems to be that atom bomb explosions have nothing to do with it. But a lot of people like to think they have.

For the life of me I can't see why so many pompous killjoys are bound and determined to deprive those people of that exciting notion. What's the harm in it?

For even on son people have been grumbling incessantly about the weather. No matter what kind it happened to be at the moment, some didn't like it. It has always been too hot or too cold or too monotonous — too wet or too dry — too breezy or too stuffy, too this or too that.

The weather is the only thing I can think of that ever made a lasting success of doing in moderation.

And if you ask me, we ought to be grateful for that. Chances are that lousy weather was the primary stimulus that led to the development of language — which is perhaps the one human asset that has kept us a jump or two ahead of the apes.

Without weather — especially unusual weather — people would never have had much to talk about in the first place. And without it they long ago would have run out of things to say. And who could ever survive a thousand-year lull in the conversation?

Well, all these years we have been going on the assumption that nobody could do anything about the weather. (Certainly nobody did, barring a few ambitious rainmakers who managed to whump up a scattered thundershower now and then.)

This, too, was a good thing. If anything could have been done about the weather, people never would have been able to agree on what they wanted done. The issue would have set nation against nation, brother against brother, and there would have been hell to pay.

Used to be we could blame the unusual weather on sunspots. Obviously nobody could do anything about sunspots, but it was nice to have something reasonably safe to fuss. Gave a refreshing new zest to the weather conversation.

If some people are tired of blaming sunspots and prefer to blame bomb tests for a change, why spoil their innocent pleasure?

Nobody can do anything about bomb tests, either, any more than about sunspots. As long as the sun can make spots it will make spots whenever it feels the urge, and as long as men can pop atoms they will shoot one off from time to time. If there aren't good reasons for doing so they will think up some.

Complaints about the weather won't stop them.

Census takers in the remote Arkansas hills have special problems. One, for instance, encountered a rugged girl — not more than twenty — with four children. "May I have their ages?" he inquired. The girl knitted her brows. "Let's see," she mused. "One's a lap child, one's a floor creeper, one's a porch child and the oldest is a yard young'un."

Six-year-old Pete, born and bred in the city, was making his first trip to a country farm. A flock of lambs amused by, and Pete reached out to pet one. "Hey, Pa," he yelled with delight, "here's some animals they make out of blankets!"

In the early days of glass making in the United States, glass makers used wood for fuel and had to move their plants when the wood supply was exhausted.

The name of the common onion is derived from the Latin word meaning "a large pearl."

Robert S. Allen Reports

Dulles Proposes Foreign Ministers Meeting Soon

Washington, April 7—Secretary of State Dulles is taking a significant step in the direction of an eventual top-level conference of the Big Four powers.

He is proposing a preparatory meeting of the Foreign Ministers of the NATO countries. The date and place are still undecided, but Dulles favors either London or Paris early next month, soon after the momentous Afro-Asian parley which opens in Bandung on April 18.

Main purpose of Dulles' unannounced plan for these NATO consultations is:

Formulate views and policies for a Big Four Foreign Ministers conference which, in turn, would prepare the way for the top-level parley advocated by Senator Walter George (D., Ga.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and other leaders.

Complete arrangements for West Germany's entrance into NATO. The Bonn regime will take part in these discussions, but not through its Foreign Minister. That will come later, after West Germany has been admitted to NATO.

All indications point to Dulles' proposal being approved. Britain and France have expressed willingness to meet with him next month, and it's considered virtually certain the other NATO countries will also agree.

Official announcement of the event will be made when its details are completed.

Note: The Joint Chiefs of Staff want West Germany included in a top-level parley, thus expanding it to five powers instead of four. Dulles also favors that.

But the British are warning the Kremlin may seize on this proposal to demand an addition of its own — Red China.

In the future—Whatever the issue of such a conference, it is still a long way off.

Authority for that is President Eisenhower himself.

He expressed this opinion during his meeting last week with the bipartisan leaders of the Senate. Senator George brought up the matter, following a statement by Secretary Dulles that he is "exploring with our allies" the feasibility of the top-level parley proposed by George.

"Can you tell us, Mr. President," asked the distinguished Georgia statesman, "Whether the outlook is hopeful for a meeting of this kind this year?"

"I would be less than frank if I didn't tell you that it is unlikely a conference of this kind will be held for some time," said the President. "I am sure all of you realize fully that a great deal of preparatory ground has to be covered before the meeting can take place. For one thing, the Foreign Ministers will have to determine whether any results can be hoped for from a conference at the highest level."

The President also cited the issue of West German participation as an important problem that would have to be settled in advance.

"Despite all the peace talk of the rulers in the Kremlin," he added, "there has been no sign of their easing up in the cold war. They are keeping that going as vigorously as ever."

Dulles reinforced this point with the assertion, "Whenever they will clearly demonstrate that peace in their language means the same thing we are talking about, then we are more than ready to meet them halfway."

Note: During this White House luncheon, Dulles made an intriguing comment in a private conversation with a senator. The latter remarked, "From Chiang Kai-shek's viewpoint, it is understandable why he considers the defense of Quemoy and Matsu as absolutely essential for the Nationalists' cause." To which Dulles replied, "Yes, that is so. But there is another crucial factor which Chiang has to consider. Just how popular would he be in the mainland if several hundred thousand or more Chinese are killed and wounded in the fighting over these coastal islands? If that happens, Chiang may find himself anything but a hero in China."

More Aid: The Nationalists are getting a lot more U. S. arms and supplies to "boof up" the defenses of Quemoy and Matsu Islands.

President Eisenhower approved this increased military assistance, on the recommendation of Admiral Radford. He urged it following requests from Admiral Robert Carney, Chief of Naval Operations, and Major General William Chase, head of the Military Mission on Formosa.

Under this expanded aid program, Chase's staff is being enlarged so that American officers and specialists can direct the strengthening of the defenses of the embattled coastal islands.

U. S. military planning in the Far East is now predicated on the Nationalists' waging a last-ditch fight for Quemoy and Matsu.

This is irrespective of whether the U. S. does or does not directly intervene in the conflict. President Eisenhower has reserved that fateful decision wholly for himself, and it has not yet been made. In the meanwhile, precautionary measures are being taken.

Illustrative is the increase in Navy air strength in the Pacific.

The statue of Christ the Redeemer, overlooking Rio de Janeiro, stands 2,200 feet above sea level and can be seen for 20 miles at sea.

Stringent Control Over Rubbish Fires Proposed In Ordinance

Fire Chief's Suggestions Considered

STROUDSBURG Council moved last night to set up an "iron-clad" ordinance controlling burning of refuse and other materials and the storage of inflammable materials within the limits of the borough.

Fire Chief Millard Marsh asked council to consider regulations of that type. He called attention to a recent fire of a pile of old tires which he said caused firemen to return a number of times to combat flames.

Prime suggestions presented to Attorney George T. Robinson, solicitor included:

Run on fire involving rubbish, paper, etc. anywhere within the borough between sunset and sunrise.

Pen on such burnings at all times within the "high value" district as described by the Middle-Atlantic district of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Provide fire department officials with proper legal backing to enforce elimination of "fire hazards."

Council discussed extension of Daylight Saving Time through October. Chief Burgess Hal H. Harris announced he will issue a proclamation setting up Daylight Saving Time through October.

Members of council will meet at 1:30 p. m. today with district highway officials to discuss new traffic signal installations at Fifth and Main Sts. The new signal system is to be installed before the new Fifth St. bridge is opened.

Lack of motion to sustain overthrow of Chief Burgess Hal H. Harris veto of an ordinance providing for curb and gutter on one side of Phillips St. only, resulted in unanimous action by council approving an ordinance for curb and gutters on both sides of Phillips St.

An ordinance was adopted ordering N. Eighth St. from Fulmer Ave. to Phillips St.

Chief Burgess Harris said he and Secretary of Forests and Waters, Goldard had checked need for flood control conditions at Broadheads Creek from Worthington Mower to a point below the interborough bridge.

Harris said Mr. Goldard agreed to send an engineer here promptly to estimate costs and work with the borough on a plan to provide against future floods of the First, Second, Third St. region.

Council authorized advertising for 30,000 gallons of bituminous material, aggregate and concrete pipe.

The local teachers also are 100 per cent in their membership in the PSEA — Pennsylvania State Education Association. Monroe County has held full membership in both groups since the 1946-47 school year, Litts said.

people of this Commonwealth."

In his statement, Leader made no mention of individual tax possibilities that were discussed.

Speculation has been made that the Administration's tax program will center around some form of person income tax with exemptions.

Although the governor has refused to discuss any single proposal he has not denied this.

A statement by Sen. Joseph M. Barr at the conclusion of the mid-night session raised the possibility of some change in stand by the Democrats in their previous stand on taxes.

No hint was given of how this might be done. Leader has repeatedly asserted he would oppose continuation of the state sales tax or imposition of a wage tax.

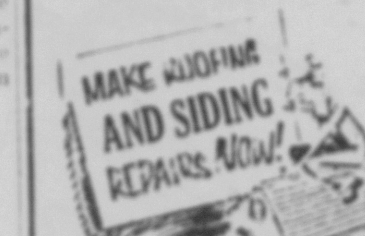

The Democratic State Chairman said that two months of "examining the books" has resulted in "a complete realignment of thinking on the tax situation in Pennsylvania."

"Political considerations of last year, in view of budget and administrative revelations since Jan. 18 (Governor's inauguration), are scarcely applicable now," said Barr.

"We have had to reevaluate our whole conception of the governmental system which, thanks to Republican artificers, operated as one of the greatest political illusions of all time."

Barr said it was "little wonder" that the Republicans "did not want us to get our hands on the books."

Barrett YMCA To Construct Parking Lot

MOUNTAINHOME — Barrett branch YMCA board met Tuesday night to discuss plans for the parking lot in front of the building. The board appropriated $180 for work on the lot.

Reports on March activities at the branch Y were given by Carlton C. Chopp, Barrett executive secretary.

Chopp told board members that game room attendance during the past month was 217. Other totals: 85 boys took part in Gra-Y activities; 74 girls of high school age attended Tri-Hi-Y meetings and 211 boys and girls participated in programs of movies and special games held at the Y.

Chopp expressed his appreciation and that of the board to High Point Inn at Mount Pocono for use of the inn's indoor swimming pool during the Winter months.

A total of 88 boys took part in progressive swim tests at High Point's pool during the month. Chopp reported.

The use of the pool was granted as a community service by Charles Geisinger, the owner-manager.

Use of the Y building by outside groups was heavy during March, Chopp said. Nine different groups—with an attendance of 555 persons—used the meeting rooms, he said.

Chopp noted that the branch Y's membership drive is continued. The board voted to send letters to residents of the area who would be interested in supporting the Y in Barrett in its campaign for new memberships.

May 19 was set as the date for the annual dinner meeting of the Barrett YMCA board and membership.

The meeting will be held at the organization building.

A nominating committee consisting of Lloyd LeBar and Herbert Lorenz was set up to submit nominations for new board of managers members. Jacob Conley was named program chairman for the annual meeting.

MOUNT POCONO—The acceptance of two new members brings to eight the total of members admitted by the Mount Pocono Rotary Club during the Rotary's Golden Anniversary year.

Ervin W. Gross and Richard Mackos are the new members. They joined at the club's weekly meeting Monday night.

Gerald M. Possinger, program chairman, gave a vocational talk on points. He stressed the danger of repainting children's toys and furniture with paint containing lead.

Recent statistics show that a high percentage of lead poisoning cases in children under six years of age could be traced to such a source, according to Possinger.

Bangor Area School Board Approves Construction Of Cafeteria, Elects Teachers

BANGOR—Bangor Area Joint School Committee approved plans and specifications for the construction of a new cafeteria building and selected two new teachers at a meeting here last night.

The cafeteria plan was favored with one amendment and change. That was that the building be constructed with a re-inforced flat roof. This was deemed necessary should the addition of a second story be desired in the future.

Turnpike Praised For Outstanding Safety Record

HARRISBURG, April 6 (AP)—The safety record of the Pennsylvania turnpike for 1954, which showed a reduction of 44 per cent in the number of fatalities from the previous year, was cited as outstanding today by the National Safety Council.

A letter from the council to the Turnpike Commission expressed "warm congratulations . . . for this achievement in the saving of human lives."

"This performance," the letter stated, "is even more significant in light of the fact that the death rate of 4.2 for every hundred million miles traveled on the turnpike in 1954 is far below the national average and the lowest ever recorded during the turnpike's operation."

Last year 51 persons were killed in accidents on the superhighway compared with 91 during 1953.

It Still Adds Up To 6 Months

PITTSBURGH, April 6 (AP)—Judge

Samuel A. Weiss didn't say a word in Allegheny County Criminal Court yesterday as he handed out sentences.

One defendant said: "I got six months and he didn't even open his mouth!"

The judge has been suffering from a throat ailment. His doctors told him not to use his voice.

Today he appeared with a "magic" writing slate on which he briefly scribbled each sentence. He showed it to the defendant, then flipped a piece of cellophane, erasing the surface, and was ready for the next case.

U. S. proved oil reserves reached a record high of 29,600,000,000 barrels at the beginning of 1955.

Dr. Goddard Urges Water Conservation

DR. MAURICE K. Goddard, State secretary of forests and waters, emphasized the importance of conservation and water supply for domestic and industrial purposes in his address before the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club at the Penn-Stroud Hotel yesterday afternoon.

Presented by Dale H. Learn, program chairman, Dr. Goddard opened his talk with the terse statement: "We need rain to meet needs of water and hold down forest fires." Ironically, before the meeting was over, Mother Nature was furnishing rain.

We should conserve our resources, not destroy them, he said. He showed the cost of food in the U. S. was 25 cents a day, 40 cents in England, Italy and India, and noted we eat better than any other nation due to the resources taken advantage of.

The complexity of life was mentioned along with the fact the U. S. furnishes 75 per cent of marketable products which did not exist 15 years ago. This demonstrated the tremendous use of resources and the heavy load of imports proved we can't exist without the rest of the world, he said.

In 1930, we were the largest exporters of metals in the world, while last year we were the largest importers of metals, he pointed out, evidence of need of world trade.

Dwelling on conservation, he told of the tremendous amount of top soil washed down in the rivers thus damaging property and cutting down agriculture production. One hundred million acres were lost to the U. S. from this practice, he said.

Water, the speaker said, created the basic resources. The first thing industry seeking new locations asks is about the water supply, which he illustrated by mentioning an instance in Tyrore.

Dr. Goddard brought up the difficulties faced by Inodel, how New York State received support of efforts for increased water supply through two decisions by the U. S. Supreme Court. The delay of Pennsylvania in cooperating in the movement will prove costly, the speaker said. He advised revaluation of the situation and cooperating with New York and New Jersey to furnish more water for domestic and industrial purposes.

Speaking of forestry he said 52 per cent of Pennsylvania was forest land. The tremendous value of forest lands for industry, hunting, fishing and recreation was demonstrated by the fact each one enjoying the sports spent $50 for equipment and other purposes divided in varied expenditures. The great value from a recreational standpoint is most valuable, together with an unchallenged need for future development to improve stream plans. Community pride has much to do with results, he said.

In the Brandywine area, this has created great gain in agriculture production. The American people will suffer if we don't have good resource management, Dr. Goddard declared.

The right to control forestry on private land was brought out. This includes cutting of timber, he said. If this is not carried out along proper lines, the speaker said the Holy Thursday Service Set For Tonight

BY TRADITION, Holy Thursday is the anniversary of the institution of the Holy Communion, and the Mountaineer Methodist Church will observe the sacrament tonight at 8, according to the pastor, Rev. Harold N. MacMurray.

In the past week, a number of members of the church who have been vacationing in the South have returned, and will be present at the service. Among these are Mrs. Ruth Ford, Mrs. Margaret Force, Miss M. Ada Stright and Miss Bertha Butters.

On Good Friday, the church will hold its annual three-hour service, beginning at noon. The meditations will be based on the Seven Words of Jesus from the Cross, the choir will present special music after each meditation. The musical service will be in charge of Mrs. John R. Nauman, choir director, and Mrs. Warren E. Miller, organist. Rev. Edgar B. Moore of the Canadensis Methodist Church will assist in the service, and will bring meditations on the second and fifth words. Rev. MacMurray will bring the meditations for the other words.

The public is invited to this service, and for those who cannot remain for the entire service, provision is made to leave at stated intervals throughout the service.

state or nation can take over control. Pennsylvania needs a water allocation act, he declared.

The Department of Forestry is a coordinator and to receive maximum benefits, each acre must be integrated. Forest, water and game are interdependent, he declared.

East Stroudsburg To Enforce Dog And Fire Ordinances

STRICT ENFORCEMENT of dog and fire ordinances has been ordered in East Stroudsburg by Burgess Jesse S. Flory. The ordinance on dogs prohibits owners from allowing their dogs to run at large unless accompanied by the owner. Police may seize dogs found at large and hold them in detention.

The dogs would be released after the owner pays costs of the detention—and a $5 fine.

Second ordinance prohibits firms, stores or individuals from burning any paper, rubbish or similar trash between sunset and sunrise within the borough limits. Burning of any material at any time other than on private property is also forbidden.

Under no circumstances is anything to be burned outside of any building located within these boundaries, Flory said: From 62 N. Courtland St. on the north; the railroad tracks on the east; the alley from S. Courtland St. at the Plaza Theater to S. Crystal (parallel to Washington St.) on the south; and a spring creek running along the rear of the R. J. Jones property on the west, and back to the 62 N. Courtland St. starting place.

There is a $10 fine for violation.

Security Dismissals Announced

By Robert E. Allen
WASHINGTON, April 6.—The State Department has fired a mail-room employee on security grounds. He was hired less than a year ago, and is the third State Department employee dismissed in the past 12 months. In each instance, "subversive information" was the cause of the discharge.

The State Department has disclosed this in a report to Rep. John Rooney (D-NY), chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee that handles the department's budget. He had learned from private sources that recently-employed State Department workers were being let out for security reasons and demanded an official accounting.

Rooney will place the matter before the full House after the Easter recess.

Materials To Resist Fungi On Paint Developed In Test

By Frank Carey
Associated Press Science Reporter
CINCINNATI, April 6 (AP)—Encouraging news came today for housewives who may be unable to keep interior painted surfaces clean no matter how hard they scrub. It was offered in a report to the American Chemical Society.

Two Cleveland chemists reported development of a speeded-up method for pre-testing exterior paints and interior coatings to lessen chances of subsequent attack by fungi.

These fungi, the chemists said, are known to be responsible for a good share of what appears to be "dirt" on the outside of painted homes, and there are strong beliefs they work on interior surfaces as well.

And this fungal "dirt," they said, is resistant to the hardest scrubbing, because the mildew-like organisms become virtually ingrained in the paint.

Chemists Robert M. Evans and Edward G. Bohalek told about the new test at the ACS's 127th national meeting.

Paint chemists have known for some time that fungi can begin to work after a paint undergoes sufficient weathering.

And, a number of anti-fungal proved "anti-fungal" materials both for outside paints and for interior organic "coatings" for kitchens, bathrooms and other inside areas.

Miss Pope Is Bride Of A. Bymum

Tohyanna—Miss Pauline Pope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Pope, of Tohyanna, was married on Friday night, April 1, at 8 p.m. at the Tohyanna Methodist Church to Albert Bymum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Bymum, of San Anselmo, Cal.

Rev. Donald Nowers performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with white snapdragons and ferns. Judith Frankendorf was organist and the singers were sisters of the bride, Mrs. Michael Fick and Mrs. Richard Clark. They sang "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a halter-length white gown, strapless with an attached stole. The bodice was of pleated crystalite, coming to a point in the back, with a rose attached for a bustle effect. The bouffant skirt was of net. Her veil of pure silk illusion fell from a crown tiara, edged with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible with satin streamers and topped with a white orchid.

Miss Luella Morris of Tohyanna was maid of honor. She wore a blue-green halter-length gown of net. The fitted strapless bodice was brocaded with seed pearls and had a net stole. Small brocaded medallions decorated the net tiered skirt. She wore a matching hairband and tulle tiara with a veil and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses.

Daniel Sullivan of Tohyanna was best man, and David Pope, brother of the bride, and Melvin Hay, a nephew of the bride, both of Tohyanna, were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue crepe street length dress with pink trim, navy accessories and a corsage of red roses.

A reception was held for friends and relatives at the home of the bride's parents. The three tiered wedding cake had been made by Mrs. Fick, sister of the bride.

For their wedding journey, the bride wore a pink print dress of pima rayon, styled with a long torso. She wore black accessories and an orchid corsage.

After their wedding trip, they will reside temporarily in Maine. The bride is a graduate of Coolbaugh Township Consolidated High School, Tohyanna and was employed at Ann's Restaurant there.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Tamalpais Union High School, Mill Valley, Calif., served in the U. S. Air Force and was stationed in Alaska for 15 months. He is now employed with the Philco Corp.

Among the pre-nuptial parties in honor of the bride was a shower given by the maid of honor, Miss Luella Morris.

WCTU Friday

East Stroudsburg Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet Friday night at 7:30 at the home of Miss Christine Christensen, 55 Ransberry Ave.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

The conjunction of new Spring bonnets and Mother-and-Son Night was just too much for the Junior Women's Club. Quite without collusion or prior consultation, they all appeared at the meeting in formal spring attire, complete with hats.

Not that they don't always look part and pretty, but usually it's on the informal side, and quite hatless. The quick switch was sort of a belated April Fool joke on their Senior advisor, Bobbie Giltipin, who had learned to discard hats for her role as official club visitor.

Came time for the picture taking and there she was, bareheaded. Well, they scurried around and borrowed her a hat for the picture. Which explains the merriment on all their faces as Randy snapped the picture before she quite got it adjusted.

Very becoming it was, anyway. If you are going to go all hand-bossy, Spring is definitely the time for it. There's no sense in winter when you have to go all bundled up and be accented, and it's much too hot and uncomfortable in the summer.

Of course, you always run the risk of getting your finery doused in an April shower but if the pattern of alternate days of sun and rain holds true, today should be a sunny day. Let's hope so for the sake of the youngsters on their first full day of vacation, and more especially for the sake of their mothers who will go crazy with all that stored-up energy being expended in-doors.

Sr. Women, Mothers Are Club Guests

The Stroudsburg Junior Woman's Club held their Mother-Senior Night meeting at the Stroud Community House on Tuesday night. Mrs. Warren Mikels, president, presented Mrs. Walter Caulfield, president of the Senior club, who introduced Senior members present. Mothers of Junior members were also introduced.

A report by Mrs. Robert Altemose, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, was read concerning the work done by the club project teams this year. Thought was given to next year's welfare work in a report by the Ways and Means committee and the Welfare committee, headed by Mrs. Richard MacDonald.

Mrs. Charles McCarthy, chairman of the nominating committee, read the slate of officers for 1955-56. They are: President, Mrs. Elwood German; 1st vice president, Mrs. Richard MacDonald; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Robert Bixler Jr.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William Morgan; recording secretary, Mrs. William Pipher; and treasurer, Mrs. Robert Payne.

Mrs. William Tucker, co-chairman, announced that the annual dinner-dance will be held at the Fernwood on May 21.

It was announced that the first week in May will be Bicycle Safety Week and will be observed by the Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg, Smithfield, and Clearview Schools. This is a project of the club's Safety Committee.

Mrs. Richard MacDonald and Mrs. Elwood German will be the delegates to the Pennsylvania Federation of Women's Clubs Convention in Pittsburgh on May 2, 3 and 4.

It was also announced that the Monroe County Federation of Women's Clubs will meet April 25 at the Penn-Stroud Hotel for their Spring meeting. The Stroudsburg Senior Women's Club will be hosts this year.

Mrs. William Graham, music chairman, introduced Mrs. Wendy Mazer and her daughter, Ellen, who delighted the audience with piano and flute duets. Their numbers were "Italian Airs from Suite in A Minor" by Telemann and "Bird Song" by Popp.

The speaker, Mrs. Fern Albert, who is the wife of a Navy chaplain, presented a most entertaining bit of philosophy entitled, "Let's Laugh, Love and Live." She used three "texts" for her speech: "Keep a green branch in your heart and the singing birds will come," "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine," and "All the world is full of trouble, and I've had my share and double." These "texts" represented the "laugh, love and live" of her speech title. In each of these categories, Mrs. Albert told many interesting and amusing stories to illustrate her point. She feels that "we are a nation of loved women" and must "rate that love" and presented that thought in her philosophy of daily living.

The tea table was appropriately decorated with bouquets and arrangements of Easter eggs. Mrs. Donald Gilpin, Senior advisor, and Mrs. Walter Caulfield poured. The hospitality committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Gerald Shanley Jr., and Mrs. Chester Miller arranged the tea table and refreshments.

Activities Reported By Church Aux.

Delaware Water Gap—With Mrs. George Hauser presiding, the April meeting of the Presbyterian Women's Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Henry Kulp. Mrs. Francis Drake read "Because He Rose" by Peter Marshall, and led in prayer.

At the business session after reports by Mrs. Guy Kempter and Mrs. Henry Kulp, the treasurer and secretary, Mrs. Russell Buzzard, reported for the church committee. She said that an electric clock had been placed in the church and thanked H. J. LaBar for installing it in the gallery partition just over the center aisle of the church.

For April, flowers will be in charge of Mrs. Richard Hauser, Mrs. Guy Kempter. It was decided to purchase two Easter lilies for the church.

Mrs. Francis Drake, reporting for the missionary committee, asked those who have not contributed to hospital sewing to look over that list still needed. Mrs. John Wilson Jr. read George Sokolsky's review of the Billy Graham meetings in Madison Square Garden. Mrs. Drake read an article in the Sunday School magazine, "Forward," which told about the work of Rev. Robert Bradburn and a fellow missionary in the city of Bangkok.

Mrs. H. W. Brodhead presented the report of cards sent by the gift committee. Mrs. Elam Gray and Mrs. John Wilson Jr. of the same committee said the wall papering at the manse had been completed and was most satisfactory.

Mrs. Herbert Baker, chairman of the ways and means committee, listed the projects for April and May by which various groups of the women could earn money for the treasury. On April 15 a bake sale will be held at Wyckoff's store. Each woman was also given the name of a friend from whom she would ask for a definite order for some baked article or for a contribution to the bake sale. The women also voted to start a gift basket on its rounds April 16.

It was decided that the Auxiliary will advance the $54 needed at once to purchase bricks for the church's share in the new church being erected in Venezuela by Rev. John Sinclair. Individual members of the church may donate one or more bricks at a low cost each, thus repaying the money advanced.

Mrs. Hauser announced the women's Prosythelial meeting to be held in Bethlehem April 29. It was voted to have a church dinner at the fire hall the night of May 14, and workers were designated. The women present volunteered to get the eggs which are at the manse and color them for the Jaycees Easter egg hunt. Mrs. Francis Drake, who trains the junior choir, was promised support in the choir project of selling greeting cards to raise money for more robes.

Those who wish to place flowers in the church in memory of loved ones are asked to notify Mrs. Guy Kempter or Mrs. Henry Kulp as early as possible that the names may be properly listed.

The eleven women present adjourned to the dining room where Mrs. Kulp, assisted by Miss Nellie Burd, served nut-bread and Boston brown bread sandwiches with coffee. Present were Mrs. George Hauser, Mrs. Guy Kempter, Mrs. Herbert Baker, Mrs. Russell Buzzard, Mrs. H. W. Brodhead, Mrs. Elam Gray, Mrs. Francis Drake, Mrs. John Wilson Jr., Miss H. Foster and the hostesses.

There's always an added air of suspense about a surprise party—you're never quite sure when it will backfire and surprise the wrong person... the hostess, perhaps. Or maybe even the guests themselves. That's how it was this Tuesday night when a group of us from Wyckoff's decided it was high time someone did something to welcome into our midst the former Marion Jamieson, "Shorty" Widmer's bride of the past several months.

In order to get Marion out of her own cozy nook for an evening, it was decided she'd be told the party was a housewarming—for some, at any apartment, and that since I'd planned to spend several hours with her, it was up to her to have me back there by 8:15. Even then it was necessary to give her a pretty rough time... and to absolutely refuse to budge from her pretty green and yellow living room, with Shorty's oil paintings on the wall. It must have been a difficult half hour for her... but when we finally did arrive at the scene of the party, it was worth the effort to watch her beam as the girls shouted "surprise"... and to see the look of disbelief glide over her face when I added, "For YOU, Marion."

As usual, Selma Ruster of our gift department, was the hit of the party... and Blanche Mackey was by far the most efficient person there in her ability to juggle trays and keep the ball rolling. Between Selma's reminiscences of Wyckoff's and earlier-day customers... Mary Hitesman's fortune telling... and the general feeling of relaxed good will that comes to you with being among the everyday folk whom you know well, it was a successful party... I think everyone would agree to that.

I am certain too, that if there hadn't been any pinwheel and checkerboard sandwiches, potato chips and pickles, olives or big wonderful cakes, it would still have been all right. Marion, I'm sure, would have stepped very happily into the kitchen at a moment's notice and whipped up some batter to prepare on her new waffle iron, or grilled a flock of hamburgers on her new grill. Just between us, I can't think of anything more wonderful than a shower... particularly one with Wyckoff employees as guests... and gifts from Wyckoff's too!

These are really exciting, partyish days at Wyckoff's, what with the shower for Bill Fisher's Betty; the farewell being planned for switchboard operator Kay Phillips, who leaves soon for Washington, D. C., and a very exciting PRX post... and the office party being held next week at Linden Court. And isn't it nice that Shirley Coffman, the new girl in our credit office, should have started her new position on her birthday?

Every once in awhile I like to take time out of the mad rush of merchandising to acquaint you with the Wyckoff personnel and the behind-the-scenes activity. It just goes to prove that Wyckoff's really lives up to its "friendly store" slogan.

Ready for Easter at your house? If you're worrying over the cost this year, visit our fashion and accessories departments. The chic little hats at our hat bar... the inexpensive but beautiful blouses at our budget blouse department on the main floor... the pretty posies and economical plastic handbags, all spell "Lovely Easter" at a price you can afford. State Income Or Sales Tax Held Certain gram the administration is designing to produce 400 to 500 million dollars in additional revenue in the next two years.

The forum ended without taking any specific stand on any tax. "We discuss things from con and do not attempt to influence any opinion. Our role is educational and for research," explained Turner.

Another tax expert, who headed Connecticut's tax commission for four years until recently, strongly supported a retail sales tax.

"It is my sincere conviction that the continuation of the retail sales tax with fewer exemptions and with an audit staff large enough to insure reasonable coverage of taxpayers is a sound proposition for Pennsylvania."

He freely predicted that if the sales tax "survives the present legislative session" opposition to it will gradually dwindle.

"For many years in Connecticut the sales tax was the forerunner of politics. But party leaders found that the sales tax had become generally acceptable to the taxpayers. This occurred despite the fact that the sales tax rate was increased two years ago from two to three per cent."

William F. Connelly, chairman of the National Tax Committee on Intergovernmental Fiscal Relations, called a retail sales tax "a sound instrument of state finance because it has attributes of stability, adequacy and flexibility."

He said a progressive state needs "a good stable broad based tax such as a personal income tax or a general retail sales tax as a revenue mainstay."

Dr. Marion K. McKay, University of Pittsburgh economics professor, urged amendment to the state Constitution to legalize a graduated personal income tax.

Princess Margaret Sees Happy Omen In Fact New Prime Minister Eden Divorced First Wife

By Stanley Godfrey

LONDON, April 6 (AP)—A divorced man became the new Prime Minister of Britain today. To pretty Princess Margaret it may well have looked like a happy omen.

Reports persist that the vivacious, 24-year-old sister of the Queen wants to marry a divorced man—handsome World War II ace Peter Townsend.

The accession of gray-haired Sir Anthony Eden to the highest office in the land is striking evidence of Britain's changing attitude toward divorce.

Twenty years ago a divorced man as prime minister would have been unthinkable. Today, the fact that Eden wiped out his first marriage to start afresh with the niece of Prime Minister Churchill hardly merited comment.

Eden's promotion to the prime ministership—effected by Queen Elizabeth alone—had the effect of final British recognition that divorce no longer need kill a man socially or professionally, provided he is not the party sued.

The cases of Eden and Townsend are similar. Both divorced their wives after World War II. Both found favor at court before the divorce—and retained it afterward.

Townsend, 40, an air force group captain, now is living in Brussels.

He was sent to a minor foreign service post there when reports of a romance with Princess Margaret first made world headlines two years ago.

Such a match would undoubtedly raise strong protests in ecclesiastical circles.

The Church of England—in which Queen Elizabeth exercises both spiritual and temporal authority—throws on the remarriage of divorced persons when first partners are still living.

Princess Margaret will be 25 next Aug. 21. After that date she is free to marry whom she chooses without royal consent.

Tuesday's 6-3 baseball victory turned in by the Faculty over Stroudsburg High was a surprise to many—but it shouldn't have been. The Faculty this year presented its best team in the annual rivalry and for seven serious innings played the high school club nip-and-tuck, with both squads going all out to gain victory. The big difference of course was Frank Radler, veteran right handed hurler, who finally admits to 30 years of age. The veteran minor league pitcher and manager, who had a brief fling with the Boston Braves, still can fire the pill.

In addition to Radler the Faculty featured John Whitehead, in the role of catcher. Whitehead, former East Stroudsburg State Teachers College receiver and one of the best catchers to ever appear in this area, worked the entire game without a breast protector. Jerry Stulgaitis, in addition to being baseball coach at Stroudsburg High, has played a lot of ball and did a fine job at first base yesterday.

Sam Wells, hampered by white shirt, tie and argyle socks, played a steady second base and came up with one of the fielding gems of the contest in the first inning. John Kupiec, who acts like Marty Marion around the shortstop diggings, could have been a fine baseball player if he hadn't concentrated on golf and basketball. Bill Keim worked at third base for the teachers and proved to his English students that he has one of the best throwing arms in the school.

Ray Kaseman, who would be playing at ESNTC again this season if he hadn't developed arm trouble, qualified for the left field berth in his role of student teacher. George Metropoulos, one of the outstanding softball players and former member of the Pocono Mountains League, operated in center field and Charley Winters, who has played a lot of baseball, handled the right field chores.

The Faculty had only one "ringer," but what a "ringer" he was. Radler was the special weapon employed by the Faculty, even though he's not a teacher. But anyone who knows Frank will agree that the right handed hurler is a true professor of baseball. Watching Frank mow down the Mountaineers on Tuesday brought back many pleasant memories. It wasn't long ago that Radler, now manager of the newly formed Stroudsburg Poconos, was setting all kinds of records as manager and star pitcher for the Stroudsburg Poconos, a member of the now defunct class "D" North Atlantic League. Remember in 1949 when Radler led the Poconos to the pennant by a margin of 22 games over second place Lebanon?

Radler, who has had arm trouble in recent years, didn't throw hard except when runners were on base. Monroe County's Mr. Baseball finished his seven innings of labor with 16 strikeouts. This means that Radler had a hand in retiring all but five hitters during his tour of duty on the mound. But Pop had plenty of trouble from the rival hurler, who was Frank Radler Jr., a southpaw better known by his many friends as "Buddy."

Young Radler pitched his way into consideration as one of the mound performers at Stroudsburg this year, as he departed from the game after six innings with the count knotted at 1-1. Although the youthful southpaw didn't exhibit a blazing fast ball and didn't register an unusual number of strikeouts, he had the faculty hitting to the right places during his tour of duty and could have been the winning hurler, with a break or two along the line.

Both teams played seriously for seven innings, but the last frame turned into a circus, with runs pouring across the plate and weak fielding being present on both sides. Both third inning runs were set up on triples by Metropoulos and Paul "Doc" Lim, captain of the Mountaineers. Both were hit to the same spot in right center field. Dick "Pickles" Hintze played only the last inning because of a "jammed" right thumb. This is the same thumb the veteran third sacker broke in basketball two seasons in the past.

Mahlon Serfass, faculty athletic manager at Stroudsburg High, was pressed into action as second base in the last inning, attired in a freshly pressed suit. Mahlon was dumped in a close play at second, but made the putout. Barry Tretheway, freshman who filled in at third base for Hintze, looks like a fine baseball prospect. Stroudsburg's catching is in the good hands of Francis "Fritz" Masara and Don Stopp. Dave Nevill, who will play in the outfield or first

Eastburg Opens Baseball Season Next Tuesday

Three Lineup Posts Remain In Doubt

EAST Stroudsburg High School will raise the curtain on the 1955 baseball season next Tuesday, with Easton High providing the opposition on the East Stroudsburg Playground field. The initial pitch is slated to take place at 2:30 p.m.

Coach Jack Kist last night revealed that he is undecided on at least three positions at the present time and probably won't decide on a starting array of talent until just before the opening contest.

One of the spots causing the most trouble is behind the bat, where three squad members are battling for a starting berth. Right now the struggle is between Dick Shaffer and Al Smith, but Kist revealed last night that Charley "Snook" Litts may be brought in from the outfield to handle the receiving duties.

If Litts gives up his normal fly chasing role the outfield will feature Bob "Red" Kupiszewski in left, Helmut Gartner, center, and Tom Michaels, right field. If Litts remains in center field Gartner and Michaels will battle for the starting position in right.

Another troublesome spot is shortstop where three players have been waging a terrific scrap for the short field post in the opening lineup. The trio consists of senior Jerry Zehman, Paul Hoffman and Ken Alberts. Kist said last night that he has no idea who will open the season in the shortstop position. Alberts is also a third base reserve.

Otherwise the Cavaliers will

Ashburn Nears Durable Mark

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—Don't snicker when they call Richie Ashburn the new "iron man." The Philadelphia Phillies' whippet centerfielder may turn out to be the most durable athlete in National League history.

Nobody ever confuses little Richie with muscle men like big Ted Kuszewski of Cincinnati or Gil Hodges of Brooklyn. He's built more like the boy who tops the pyramid of strong men in a carnival act. But Ashburn stays in the lineup day after day while stronger men rest their aching bones.

At the close of the 1954 season, Ashburn had played 730 consecutive games since June 7, 1950. The National League record is 822, set by Gus Suhr, Pittsburgh first baseman, from 1931 to 1937. With 92 games to go, Ashburn should beat Suhr's mark by Aug. 1, barring injury.

The major league record of 2,130 set by the late Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees from 1925 to 1937, is beyond reach of Ashburn or any other present day major leaguer.

base, is being bothered by a shoulder injury which occurred in football last season. The big question mark in the W. Main St. baseball setup this season is the pitching and hitting situations.

Tobyhanna To Campaign In Six-Team Pocono Mountains Diamond Association This Year

TOBYHANNA—Tobyhanna will again be represented in the Pocono Mountains Baseball League during the coming campaign. It was revealed last night by Frank "Candy" Dailey, club manager.

The club is scheduled to hold its first business meeting of the spring next Wednesday, here at Yakita's Soda Fountain. The session is scheduled to get under way at 8 p. m.

Dailey is hopeful that all team candidates and anyone interested in furthering the cause of this village's baseball representative will attend next Wednesday's meeting.

The club will play its home games on the Coolbaugh High School field once again this season.

Tobyhanna is hopeful of drawing some playing talent from among the employees at the Tobyhanna Signal Corps.

The Pocono Mountains Association held a meeting at the Borough Hall in Moscow last Sunday, at which time Gouldsboro was presented with two trophies for winning the pennant and post-season playoff championship last season. Each of the players also received individual trophies. The league plans two banquets this year.

Six teams will make up the association this season. The circuit will feature Moscow, Mount Cobb, Gouldsboro, Daleville and Hamlin, in addition to Tobyhanna. Maple Lake dropped out of the circuit this year and Newfoundland didn't return to the fold as planned.

Newfoundland was also out of action last season. Tobyhanna was represented at the league and John Giegler.

Yankees Plaster Lynchburg With Homers, 19-2

LYNCHBURG, Va., April 6 (AP)—The New York Yankees plastered the Lynchburg Cardinals of the Class B Piedmont League today, 19-2, hammering four home runs among their 18 hits.

Tommy Byrne, 35-year-old lefthander almost twice the age of most of the kids he faced, went the route and allowed four hits.

He fanned seven and walked six. Phil Rizzuto, Mickey Mantle, Enos Slaughter and Andy Carey hit for the circuit, the first three hitting theirs in the fourth inning, when the Yankees scored five runs.

Hockey Star Draws Ban

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 6 (AP)—Center Bob Bailey of the Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League today was suspended for the rest of the Calder Cup playoffs for slugging Referee Jerry Oliniski in a playoff game last Saturday in Pittsburgh.

Bailey has been under suspension since Sunday and the decision to continue the suspension was reached here at a meeting of league officials, Bailey and Hornet Coach Howie Meeker.

A league spokesman said the suspension will be continued until such time as the league meets after the season is over. He said the league would then vote on final disposition of the case.

Bailey could be suspended for the rest of next season, fined, or reinstated, the spokesman said.

Three Bangor Sports Budgets Win Approval

BANGOR—The Bangor Joint Area School Committee last night approved a budget for both the girls and boys basketball teams during a meeting here at the high school.

The budgets were adopted by the athletic council at an earlier date.

Committee members approved a $1,157.60 budget for the boys and a $438.95 expenditure for the girls.

The committee also approved a budget of $381.90 for the cheerleaders.

A schedule for the girls was also adopted for next season. It will open on Tuesday, December 20 at Slatington. The girls will also campaign in the East Penn Girls' League again next year.

Quintith LaBar, chairman of the athletic committee, announced that 20 baseball shirts, no longer used by Bangor High School, had been donated to the Slate Belt Babe Ruth League.

LaBar also revealed that the annual All-Sports Banquet will be held on Wednesday, May 25, at the Blue Valley Farm Show Auditorium.

Oravec Wins All-State Cage Selection

By Richard L. Graves
HARRISBURG, April 6 (P) — Towering Wilt Chamberlain, long touted as one of the nation's top high school cage stars, far outdistanced competition in voting for the 1955 Associated Press All State scholastic basketball team named today.

Rounding out the 18th annual All State team are Horace Walker of Chester, Jim McCoy of Farrell, Gene Danko of McKeesport, and Jim Oravec of Palmerton.

It is the second straight year for both Chamberlain and McCoy to win first team All State honors, making this year's squad one of the most powerful from the standpoint of experience.

Both Danko and Walker made the fifth All State team in 1954, while Oravec was in the honorable mention group.

Including the seven-foot Chamberlain, who played his ball for Philadelphia's Overbrook High, this year's dream aggregation averages a comparatively small six foot three and one-half—an inch and a half shorter than last year's first squad.

But in point making ability there is no question that the 1955 club is the equal of any previous team. The players' average total score for the season—not counting sky-high Wilt—was some 450 points. Nobody scored less than 400.

The Overbrook center tallied an incredible 816 points during a year against the roughest kind of opposition, to bring his three-year total to a record 2,552 for class "A" competition.

The team was selected for the AP by 125 coaches, sportswriters and sportscasters. All player choices were from schools playing class "A" basketball. The AP's Little All State, made up of players from class "B" and "C" schools will be announced later. Votes were tallied on the basis of 10 for first choice, nine for second choice and so on.

The starting five this year was an all-out favorite with voters across the state. The reasons for this is that all of the players—with the possible exception of Oravec—have been widely seen in action.

The Overbrook team, with Chamberlain, traveled across the state in December to play two tourney games in western counties. Wilt saw action against both McCoy and Danko in games with Farrell and McKeesport.

Danko and Walker were stand-out performers in the state chamionship game televised statewide and probably viewed by more than a million basketball fans.

Walker, the only junior among the first team all states, has started every game for Chester since the opening of the 1953-54 season.

Five teams and a group of honorable mention selections were made from all sections of Pennsylvania. The list follows:

Hogan, Snead Rate Favorite Role In Masters Tournament

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6 (P) — Georgia's big freeze a couple of weeks ago deprived the Masters golf tournament of its usual floral background. Another kind of big freeze is due to hit tomorrow when play begins in this first major tournament of the 1955 season. And this time players instead of flowers will be the victims.

Yanks Place Reynolds On Retired List

By Joe Reichler

NEW YORK, April 6 (P) — The official retirement of Allie Reynolds today snuffed out any faint hopes the New York Yankees had that the former great pitcher might change his mind and take one last whirl. Reynolds was formally placed on the voluntary retired list.

The loss of "The Chief," as Reynolds was known to millions of baseball fans, undoubtedly will make the Yankees' task of wrestling the American League crown from Cleveland that much more difficult.

In the eight years that Reynolds toiled for the Yankees he proved to be one of the greatest "money" pitchers in the club's history. In addition to winning 131 games while losing only 60 during the regular seasons Allie captured seven World Series games to equal the record established by Red Ruffing, another former Yankee.

Although it was quite unintentional on his part, Reynolds himself gave the tipoff on just how much his loss would be felt by the Yankees when he picked the Indians to retain their championship in a recent interview.

The Yankees received the official news of Reynolds' retirement in the form of a telegram asking that his request be relayed to the offices of Commissioner Ford Frick and American League President Will Harridge. The request was promptly, but reluctantly, honored.

Allie's decision to quit baseball was made after weeks and months of thought. A back injury, sustained in a bus collision two years ago, was mainly responsible. Pressing business interests was another. The final decision was made on the advice of his doctor who convinced him a continuation of his career might lead to a major operation and possible permanent injury to his back. Although his back hurt on and off last year, Reynolds turned in a creditable 13-4 record as a starter and reliever.

Many observers feel that Oravec played his first game in a losing cause, as the Bombers were eliminated from the District 11 playoffs by Allentown in the final tussle.

Oravec made only one of two first half shots, but in the final quarter tallied six straight field goals on shots ranging from 15 to 35 feet from the basket.

The Palmerton star was held to only six points in last season's first game with Stroudsburg—the now famous "freezing fiasco." But when the same teams clashed at Palmerton, Oravec led the Bombers to a 95-52 nod and a court record when he tallied 24 counters. Palmerton won the first game, 29-32.

During the 1953-54 campaign, Oravec scored 22 points in each game against the Mountaineers.

It was the play of the left-handed all-state star that prevented East Stroudsburg from registering one of the biggest upsets of the season against Palmerton in the Lehigh Valley League Invitation Tournament in Slatington last December.

Mostly through Oravec's efforts Palmerton won 24 straight games last season before bowing to Allentown.

Little Lands Honorable Mention Spot

DICK LITTLE, regular center on the Stroudsburg High School basketball team for the past two campaigns, yesterday was named to an honorable mention berth on the All-Pennsylvania cage machine as selected by the Associated Press.

Little, who won a berth on the Lehigh Valley League All-Star team this season, joins Merrill Eckhart, Slatington, and Palmerton's Les Switzer in the honorable mention group.

Mike Dulik, Catasauqua, won a fifth team berth on the selections announced yesterday. Dulik, Eckhart and Jim Oravec, also of Palmerton, were unanimous choices for the all-Lehigh Valley League squad this year.

Cal Vogel, Wilson Borough star who scored 90 points against Pen Argyl, also earned an honorable mention position on this season's list. Wilson Borough is a member of the Lehigh-Northampton League.

"I am extremely happy," is the way Stroudsburg coach John Napier responded to the news of Little's selection. "I firmly believe that when Dick learns the art of dribbling and faking he will develop into a good college player," the libelous Napier added. The W. Main St. mentor concluded by saying, "I don't believe Little's potential has been reached to date."

Little finished as the ninth best scorer in the Lehigh Valley League with an even 200 points, or an average of 14.5 a game. The six foot, three inch tall 82 field goals and 36 free throws. He scored 29 points against Catasauqua and 28 against Lehigh for his top game outputs.

Dick is an academic student. He weighs 195 pounds and is 18 years of age. Little formerly played basketball and baseball but gave up the latter sport this season.

Eckhart won the Lehigh Valley League scoring title last season with 303 points on 119 field goals and 75 foul shots.

Union Wants Commission Investigated

HARRISBURG, April 6 (AP)—A trade union wants a legislative investigation of what it terms "anti-union activities" of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

The proposal was adopted by the executive council of the AFL-Pennsylvania Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which has been trying to organize turnpike toll collectors for two years.

"During this time," said Robert A. Callahan, international organizer for the union, "the Turnpike Commission has used every means to prevent these employees from joining an AFL union."

Callahan said he could not say at this time which legislator would be requested to call for the probe.

He charged the commission with using a "company union" as a "front organization to disseminate anti-union literature of the worst order."

Callahan also displayed a letter he said came from Chairman T. J. Evans of the Turnpike Commission explaining that he is awaiting "clarification" of the commission's legal capacity in labor problems before agreeing on any meeting to discuss collectors' grievances.

Radioactive Cocktails Combine With New Findings In Surgery To Fight Stomach Cancer

By Alton L. Blakeslee
Associated Press Science Reporter
MINNEAPOLIS, April 6 (AP)—Cocktails of radioactive vitamin B12 and new findings in surgery point ways to save more people from stomach cancer. This is one of the hardest cancers to detect and cure.

Both developments were described today by University of Minnesota surgeons to science writers on an American Cancer Society tour of cancer centers.

The radioactive B12, mixed with water, is used to detect whether a person has pernicious anemia. Stomach cancer is 100 times more likely to occur in persons with this anemia than in normal persons, said Dr. Lloyd MacLean.

People with this greater susceptibility of cancer should then have regular check-ups—perhaps four a year—to detect any cancer early when the chances of surgical cure are best, he said.

Pernicious anemia is due fundamentally to lack of a substance made in the stomach, called intrinsic factor. It transports B12 from the stomach to the bloodstream. Radioactive cobalt in the B12 gets into the bloodstream and urine if a person has intrinsic factor, but can't be detected in the urine of people lacking intrinsic factor.

To control the anemia, B12 can be injected directly into the bloodstream.

Surgical studies have disclosed unexpected hide-outs of cancer cells which escaped from cancers originating in the stomach, said Dr. Stuart Arheiger. This knowledge now is being used in the techniques aimed at removing all the cancer during surgery for stomach cancer.

A difficulty in stomach cancer is that by the time it's detected, cancer often has spread to lymph nodes in the abdomen.

Six years ago, Dr. Owen Wangenstein and associates, including

Dr. Arheiger, began making "age-and-look" operations to see if there still was cancer in lymph nodes six months after the stomach was removed.

If they found new cancer hide-out spots, these would be removed, and "look-see" operation made every six months later, until no new hide-out spots could be found. This method has saved a few people who otherwise would have died from undetected cancer spreads.

By charting the areas where cancer was found in "second look" operations, the surgeons have improved their techniques aimed at getting all the cancer the first time. The charting showed there are some favorite hide-out spots, in addition to those which the surgeons customarily had been removing. Within the last year, they have been routinely removing these lymph nodes and hope for better results in getting all the cancer.

Tenure Limit Proposed By Congressman

By Arthur Edson
WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—Of the more than 7,000 bills introduced in this session of Congress, one by Rep. Thomas Curtis (R-Mo.) seems the least likely to succeed.

For Curtis wants to put a constitutional limit on how long a man can hang on in Congress. And if there is any spot where congressmen show a fine, bipartisan spirit, it's here. They all want to hang on.

If Curtis had his way, each senator and representative would have to drop out for at least two years after serving 12 consecutive years.

Curtis has tried to make this departure as diplomatic sounding as possible. "Compulsory sabbatical leave," he calls it.

Not many voters understand the pressures that build up to keep a man or woman in Congress. No man likes to turn loose of an important job, especially if he needs it to eat, as many congressmen do.

But Congress, with its seniority system, presents a special problem.

Why step down now, boys? I'm in line for the chairmanship of a big committee.

So the Senate, led by Sen. Walter George (D-Ga.), who arrived here on Nov. 8, 1922, has 17 of 96 members with 12 years or more of consecutive service.

The House is led by Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.), who goes all the way back to March 4, 1913, the day Wilson was inaugurated President.

It's hard to count the old noses in the House exactly, because many representatives have breaks in their service records. But around 125 of the 435 have been here for 12 consecutive years or longer.

Eight have put in more than 30 years, and on June 30, Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass.) will be 70.

Obviously no one is going to vote for a constitutional amendment that puts him out of work. Curtis has tried to get around that by having his amendment take effect 12 years after its adoption.

But a proposed amendment needs a two-thirds vote in the House and Senate before it can be sent to the states for ratification or rejection. And with so many oldtimers around, who have found the present system pleasant, Curtis' proposal will have rough going.

He concedes this. But he is hopeful that after the idea has been kicked around awhile, other congressmen will see the same merit he sees in it.

Such as:

Giving a congressman a way to bow out gracefully, giving him a rest period at home in which he can get a fresh look at the nation's problems, providing the seniority system with a little flexibility.

As you doubtless have guessed Curtis is a young squirt as congressmen go, having arrived here only four years ago. Speaking for the squirts, Curtis says few congressmen start out intending to make a career of it.

"They simply get caught in a fascinating rut," he said.

It will be interesting to check, eight years from now, and see if the Curtis theory is right, and if the fascinating rut has claimed him, too.

Israel Pleads For Egypt To End 'Siege'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., April 6 (AP)—Israel warned today the Egyptian-Egyptian armistice may "cease to exist" unless the Egyptians end what she called a steady, accumulating, relentless siege of Israel.

Ambassador Abba Eban, Israeli delegate, appealed for U.N. action at an emergency meeting of the U.N. Security Council. After an hour's session, the council adjourned until it receives reports from the U.N. truce supervision organization in the tense Gaza strip area.

Eban said Egypt is carrying out a deliberate policy of hostility by repeated acts against Israeli forces and citizens along the border of the Egyptian-held strip. He said Israel expects protection from the Security Council and asked for an "expression of concern" from the Council.

Ambassador Omar Lutfi, Egypt's delegate, countered with a charge that Israel was trying to turn aside a condemnation voted by the Council last week for an Israeli raid on an Egyptian outpost. He said Israeli authorities constantly made propaganda in an attempt to throw the blame for the tension on Egypt.

"So long as Israel commits acts of aggression, there will be a state of tension," Lutfi said.

Nationalists Declare Peace Hinges On Control Of Strait

By Fred Hampson
TAIPEI, Formosa, April 6 (AP)—Three Chinese Nationalist military leaders said in interviews today that peace in Asia will last only so long as the West controls Formosa Strait.

When the Communists get into a position to challenge that control—of sea and air—their opposition will have to fight or retreat, these leaders said. They declared control of the strait is slipping away now.

All three asked anonymity because of the subject, while military, encroaches on the political field.

They presented the side of the argument which holds that the only way capable of being localized in this area is one to keep the Reds out of the strait.

That means a war to hold the offshore islands of Quemoy and the Matsu. That means keeping Red gunboats out of the strait. That means bombing South China's airfield network now being built. The network may enable Peiping to wrest control of the air over the strait.

One military leader put the situation this way:

"The pivot of war and peace in this part of the world is the control by the Nationalists and the American navy of the strait of Formosa. As long as that control stays in our hands, but when Peiping gets in a position to challenge our control, either retreat or war must come, and the war will be the kind that spreads because each side would have to go after the other's bases and communications."

When and if the Communists win control of the strait, they contend, Formosa and the whole system of Western island defenses in the Pacific will be in danger.

Profit-Taking In Final Hour Lowers Profits

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—The stock market managed to eke out an advance today in the face of late selling.

Gains and losses usually covered a range of around 2 points but some stocks were well outside those limits.

The market started higher and continued its advance in a cautious manner until the final hour when selling to take profits appeared.

Steels led the rise but they suffered somewhat in the late selling as did all major divisions.

Airlines were a strong late feature while also higher were the utilities, motors, coppers, motion pictures, chemicals and railroads. The rest of the market, including aircrafts, was mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 30 cents at $160.80. That is only $1.80 away from the historic peak reached March 4.

The three components of the average advanced—industrials 30 cents, rails 50 cents, and utilities 10 cents.

The market broadened out slightly from yesterday with 1,224 issues traded, a rise of 22 issues. There were 576 stocks advancing and 411 declining with 88 new highs and 12 new lows for the year.

Business amounted to 2½ million shares as compared with 2,100,000 shares traded yesterday. Both totals are well below the daily average so far this year.

Today's rather subdued market performance wasn't surprising to brokers who pointed out that impending Jewish and Christian holidays tend to cut down normal Wall Street attendance. Security markets will be closed Good Friday.

The American Stock Exchange was somewhat mixed at the close. Trading amounted to $60,000 shares as compared with $50,000 shares yesterday.

The bond market was higher. U.S. Government issues in the over-the-counter market were firm.

Frost Damage Set At $15 Million

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 6 (AP)—Frost damage to fruits and nuts in six counties of the Sacramento Valley was estimated in some quarters today as high as $15 million dollars.

Estimates climbed as growers' associations, farm advisors and horticultural commissioners reported on the recent damage.

Jaycees Announce Dyeing Of 5,220 Eggs Completed

SO FAR JAYCEES HAVE counted 5,220 eggs dyed and ready for the hunt at Stroudsburg playground Monday at 10 a. m.

The eggs will be hidden over the weekend. Monday morning a county-sized army of toddlers is expected to invade the grounds after eggs and prizes.

Stere Allen Honored By Jaycee Unit

TELEVISION star Steve Allen has been named honorary chairman of the Jaycees Easter egg hunt Monday, April 11, in Stroudsburg.

Allen is the master-of-ceremonies of a late-night entertainment called "Tonight." He's a National Broadcasting Co. TV standby.

In a telegram to Allen yesterday, Jaycees egg hunt chairman, Herb Zubow, operator of a menswear shop in Stroudsburg, notified the star of his selection. Said Zubow's wire:

"Pocono Mountains Jaycees have selected you as honorary chairman of our Easter egg hunt on April 11 at 10 a.m. at Stroudsburg playground.

"Toddlers to age 12 are invited to win prizes—including 100 live rabbits. Donations for this affair can be mailed to Herb's Men's Shop, Stroudsburg, Pa."

Whitmores Buy Penn St. House

A RESIDENCE at 58 Penn St., East Stroudsburg, has been bought by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Whitmore, East Stroudsburg, according to deeds recorded yesterday at the courthouse.

Grantors were Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Abelf, that district.

Pyle Speaks To Group

E. C. PYLE, district forester, spoke on forest fire fighting at a meeting of the Police Reserve club Monday night at the Italian Club.

He demonstrated several pieces of equipment used in coping with woods fires, including tanks carried on the backs of fire-fighters, brush hooks, rakes, torches used to start back fires and field telephones which connect the tower workers and sometimes airplanes with the men on the fire line.

Pyle said the reserve could aid in the battle against forest fires in several ways: fighting them, spotting incendiary fires, patrol duty and directing traffic at the scene.

The Red Cross film, "Disaster," was shown. It dealt with floods, fires and storms. Next meeting will be held April 11.

Jeddo-Highland Old Co.'s 'blue' COAL Lehigh Valley-Hazleton SILVER CREEK FREE BURNING CITY COAL CO. PHONE 1234

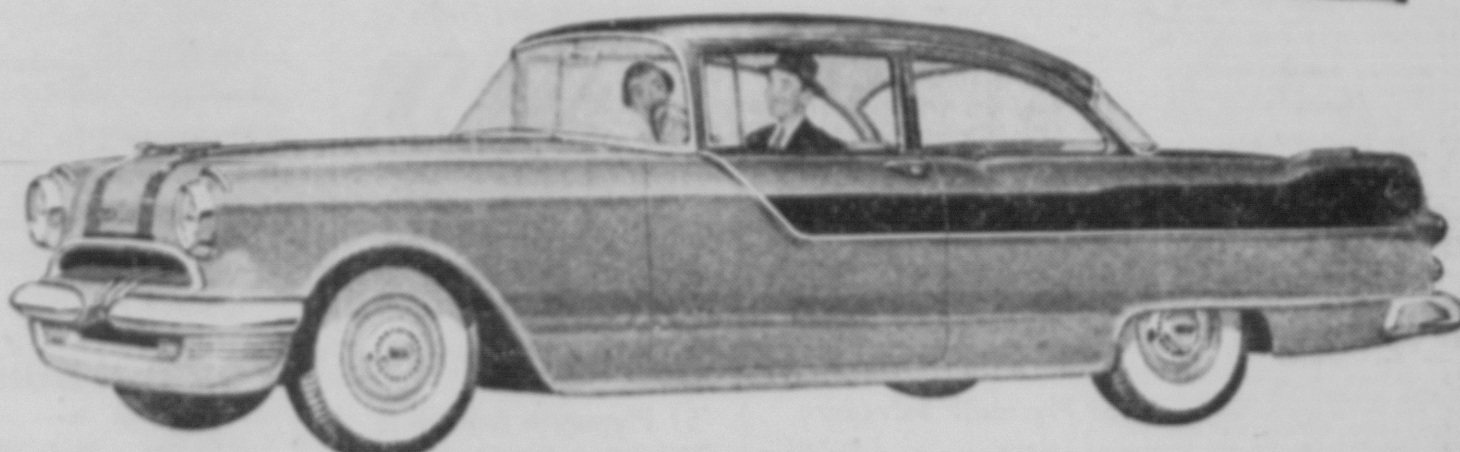

Here's why MORE PEOPLE ARE BUYING PONTIACS than ever before!

You can buy a big, powerful Pontiac for less than many models of the lowest-priced cars and much less than stripped economy models of higher-priced makes!

Compare this price! $2195.00

Biggest car at this price (122" wheelbase) • Most powerful car at this price (180 horsepower) • Only car at any price with distinctive Vague Two-Tone Styling and the riding and driving ease of the torsion-free, Shock-Proof Chassis.

800 2-door 6-passenger Sedan illustrated. State and local taxes, if any, extra, as are white sidewalls and two-tone color. Price may vary in surrounding communities due to freight differential.

You don't have to look far to find the reason for the tremendous surge to Pontiac. No further than the fact that only Pontiac produces cars that compete with the costliest in size, smartness and power, yet carry a price tag that is well under many in the lowest-price field.

That's what brings people in to see and drive a Pontiac—a value story they simply can't afford to overlook. And once they do—once they get a close-up of America's most distinctive styling... once they sample the superlative roominess and comfort of Pontiac's luxury interiors... once they try the pulse-racing thrills of exclusive Strato-Streak V-8 performance—they lose interest in every car but this.

Come in and get the rest of the story. See, drive and price this high-powered future-fashioned beauty. You'll find that if you can afford any new car you can easily afford a Pontiac.
